MINDARIE-HALIDON

A community of steel, built for racing

Thriving and only growing, Mindarie-Halidon continue to charge!

The volunteer-run club stages just one meeting each year at its character-filled, historic Halidon racecourse – located in prime farming territory, 100km north east of Murray Bridge.

The event has long been affectionately tagged ‘the Melbourne Cup of the Mallee’, but concerns about volunteer numbers and the course saw the 2021 meeting slated as the club’s last hurrah.

A surge in community support and the dedication of a passionate committee revived the club, leading to record Cup Day crowds, renewed enthusiasm and ongoing infrastructure upgrades.

Its bank of volunteers has grown and the club is now planning for the coming 5 to 10 years.

The Mindarie-Halidon Cup Day meeting is classic country racing, typically boosted by its TAB status, excellent fields and an outstanding grass track, regularly lauded by visiting trainers and jockeys.

Held on a Sunday in mid-September, the meeting is the single biggest event for the local community, with Halidon’s tiny population (officially 13) swelling to around 2000 people on the day. As a once-a-year catch-up for many locals, it provides vital social interaction and has been acknowledged for its positive impact on mental health, amid often-challenging times for those living and working in rural areas.

Most of the Cup Day catering is lovingly, but expertly handled by club volunteers, meaning racegoers – from once-a-year punters, to racing enthusiasts and everyone in between – benefit from the family-friendly, picnic atmosphere trackside.

A new public shed area was unveiled at the 2024 meeting, providing an improved setting for the legendary barbecue, and the bustling drinks bar.

Live entertainment is always part of Mindarie-Halidon Cup Day, including a local band and the well-supported Fashions on the Field.

On race day, buses roll in from surrounding towns and districts—particularly the Riverland, which no longer hosts its own races—bringing crowds eager to be part of the action. Celebrating its centenary in 2016, the club offers on-track TAB facilities, improved mobile coverage and a lively bookies’ ring that evokes the charm and energy of classic country racing.

The spectator area is largely grassed and racegoers are urged to bring their own chairs. Small marquees are popular on the day and groups of racegoers keen to enhance their race-day experience are urged to book these early with the club. Mini-buses often converge for Mindarie-Halidon Cup Day, allowing people to best enjoy the meeting with a group of friends, workmates, or sporting or social club colleagues.

MINDARIE-HALIDON CUP DAY

SUNDAY 14 SEPTEMBER 2025

Finally, the 1800m Mindarie-Halidon Cup is the highlight of the meeting each year, and always attracted well-performed, metropolitan-standard middle-distance gallopers. Most of the state’s top riders return to the Mindarie-Halidon Cup meeting each year, further underlining its position as among the most beloved meetings on the SA country racing calendar.

Bringing the Fun to the Field: Sportsbet’s Commitment to Country Racing SA

As the exclusive wagering partner of Country Racing SA, Sportsbet is proud to support grassroots racing across the state—not just at the track, but deep within the heart of each local community.

Through a long-term partnership, every country racing club in South Australia has the opportunity to host a fun, engaging community activation each year. These events are designed to do more than just entertain—they encourage locals to get involved, draw crowds to the races and raise funds for not-for-profit groups doing great work in their region.

Two of the most popular activations so far? The Themed Relay and the Community Club Challenge—both tailored to reflect the spirit and personality of each community.

The Themed Relay brings together four teams of four to compete in a light-hearted contest that either plays on the traditions of the race day or celebrates a local hallmark. Tuna sprints, swag roll up hurdles, or easter egg and spoon races—whatever gets the crowd laughing and cheering.

The Community Club Challenge, on the other hand, is all about friendly rivalry and good fortune. Local groups are invited to bring a table to the races, where they’re assigned a horse in each race. If their horse places in the top three, the club wins prize money—simple, exciting and for a great cause.

While Sportsbet covers the cost and prizes for these activations, it’s the clubs who take the reins.

They manage the event, engage with community groups and ensure everything runs smoothly—because no one knows their community better than they do. All participants must be 18+ and planning ahead is key to success.

As the program continues to grow, so too does its impact—bringing people to the track, strengthening community ties and delivering race days to remember. It’s fun with purpose, and it’s just getting started.

Behind the Scenes at Country Racing: Supporting Young People in Discovering Careers and Horse Welfare

From Clare Lindop – Industry Development & Training Officer

For many, a day at the races means fashion, form guides, and the thunder of hooves down the straight. But behind the scenes of South Australia's country racetracks lies a dynamic network of professionals, all working together to deliver race days that are not only thrilling but safe, regulated, and welfare focused. More importantly, these events are also becoming a valuable platform for the next generation to explore careers in racing.

Through Race Day Exploration Visits, young people, educators, and racing-curious community members are being given the chance to step behind the barriers and experience firsthand the breadth of roles involved in a race day—from the stables to the stewards' room.

Opening the gate to Career Pathways

- The role of stable staff in daily horse care, including feeding, grooming, saddling, and post-race recovery routines.
- Trackwork riders and jockeys, who ensure horses are exercised and race ready.
- Stewards and race officials, responsible for enforcing regulations and ensuring fair competition.
- Veterinarians and equine welfare officers, who conduct pre-race inspections and monitor horse health.
- Racecourse management staff, who oversee track preparation, event logistics, and safety measures.

By experiencing these roles in action, young participants walk away with a deeper understanding of the training, commitment, and variety of pathways available in the racing industry.

Welfare and Regulation at the Heart of Racing

Racing's future depends not only on the excitement of competition but also on its integrity and commitment to horse welfare. Young visitors learn about the extensive regulations and protocols designed to protect both horse and rider, including:

- Pre-race veterinary inspections, ensuring horses are fit and healthy to compete.
- Gear and safety checks, conducted to maintain fair and safe competition conditions.
- Post-race recovery protocols, including cool-downs, hydration and monitoring horses.
- Regulations that protect horses and riders, including race-day medication rules, jockey weight requirements and track condition assessments.

These insights help demystify the regulatory side of the sport, showing how racing balances tradition with a modern, welfare-first mindset.

<https://www.racingsa.com.au/careers/>

Race Day Experience and exploration visits provide hands-on learning opportunities, such as:

- Seeing our beautiful horses racing up close and personal and enjoying the thrill of watching them compete!
- Observing the start of a race from behind the barriers, seeing how horses and riders prepare.
- Touring facilities like the Mounting Yard, Jockeys' Rooms, Scales, Steward's Area and the Judge's Broadcast Box.
- Hearing from industry professionals about their career pathways and the dedication required to work in racing.

Connecting the Community to the Industry

Whether you're a student considering a hands-on career or a teacher looking to inspire your class, Country Racing SA and Racing SA are committed to opening doors. Schools, youth groups, and community organisations are encouraged to get involved and take part in these eye-opening experiences.

For many young people, it's the first step toward a career they never imagined—and for all participants, it's a chance to see the sport through a new lens: one that values not just speed and spectacle, but education, opportunity and care.
